Law

Spring/Summer 2024

Welcome

Our Law list has a focus on justice and human rights, exploring the way the law works to protect the things that are most important to our society.

We publish authors whose experience and expertise puts them in a unique position to examine weaknesses in the law, authors who can shine a spotlight on injustice and put forward compelling proposals for change in policy and practice.

We are actively seeking to commission work which engages with contemporary sociolegal issues and explores the way the law is responding, or failing to respond, to everyday challenges in local and global contexts.

We welcome proposals for international research monographs, general non-fiction titles, textbooks and policy-focused books that aim to have impact beyond academia.

If you have an idea for a new book that fits with our approach and which you would like to discuss, please contact our Publisher, Helen Davis.

Unchecked Power?

How Recent Constitutional Reforms are Threatening UK Democracy

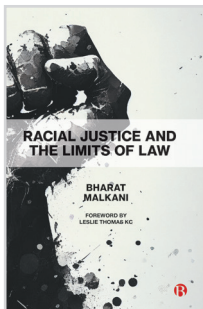

Alison L. Young, University of Cambridge

"Invaluable. A balanced and illuminating analysis of critical contemporary developments to our constitutional arrangements"

THE RT HON. THE LORD JUDGE,
CONVENOR OF THE CROSS BENCH PEERS,
2019–2023

For some, Boris Johnson's premiership epitomised how far the UK's democracy has been captured by populism. Events like 'Partygate' eventually led to his resignation, but other constitutional changes take place with little public awareness. Alison L. Young provides the first consolidated account of these changes, arguing that democracy is being endangered and that the UK's post-Brexit constitution should be shored up to prevent it collapsing into a system of unchecked power.

Racial Justice and the Limits of Law

Bharat Malkani, Cardiff University

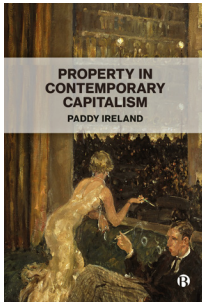

"A compelling and thorough analysis of anti-racism in contemporary legal relations."

SHAIMAA ABDELKARIM, UNIVERSITY OF BIRMINGHAM

Racial justice is never far from the headlines. This book examines law's troubled relationship with racial justice. It explains that law's historical role in creating and perpetuating racial injustices continues to stifle its ability to advance the cause of racial justice today. Both a lawyer's guide to anti-racism and an anti-racist's guide to legal action, it unites these perspectives to help both groups understand how to use the law to tackle racial injustices.

Property in Contemporary Capitalism

Paddy Ireland, University of Bristol

Amid the shift towards neoliberalism and the privatisation of resources, this book provides a radical new lens through which to view property and property theory.

Boldly challenging the conventional theories of property law that have shaped our understanding for centuries, leading expert Paddy Ireland raises broader questions about ownership in society. The book ignites a powerful conversation about the increasingly unequal distribution of wealth, forcing us to accept that our current property system bears considerable responsibility for the current 'polycrisis'.

Tackling Torture

Prevention in Practice

Malcolm Evans, Regent's Park College,
Oxford

"Eloquently and accessible....an essential text for those interested in questions of detention, monitoring and anti-torture."

HUMAN RIGHTS LAW REVIEW

Malcolm Evans tells the story of torture prevention under international law, setting out what is really happening in places of detention around the world. Challenging assumptions about torture's root causes, he calls for what is needed to bring about change.

Drawing on his experience as Chair of the UN Subcommittee on Prevention of Torture, he gives a frank account of the remarkable capacities of this system, what it has achieved in practice – or not been able to achieve – and most importantly, why.

Adult Social Care Law and Policy

Lessons from the Pandemic

Jean V. McHale and Laura Noszlopy,
University of Birmingham

Available open access digitally under CC-BY-NC-ND licence.

The pandemic has laid bare vulnerabilities and inconsistencies in the adult social care system and the ways in which these place people who draw on services in ever more precarious positions. Based on original socio-legal research, this book traces how emergency legislation and operational changes played out on the ground and offers ways forward for law and regulation.

Beyond the Virus

Multidisciplinary and International Perspectives on Inequalities Raised by COVID-19

Edited by Sabrina Germain and Adrienne Yong, City, University of London

"An important series of essays..."
KEITH SYRETT, UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL

As the COVID-19 pandemic has unfolded, stark social inequalities have increasingly been revealed and, in many cases, exacerbated by the global health crisis. This book explores these inequalities, identifying three thematic strands: power and governance, gender and marginalised communities. By examining these three themes in relation to the effects of the pandemic, the book uncovers how unequal the pandemic truly is.

Labour Law and the Person

An Agenda for Social Justice

Lisa Rodgers, University of Leicester

This book introduces an innovative approach to social justice for labour law centred on the concept of 'relational autonomy and vulnerability'. Highlighting the need to balance individual needs with societal needs and government involvement, the book sets an inclusive labour law agenda that adapts flawlessly to the ever-evolving labour market.

Justice, Power and Resistance

Volume 7 | 2024 | 3 issues

Co-Editors: Jon Burnett, University of Hull, UK and

Ida Nafstad, Lund University, Sweden

Consulting Editor: Vicky Canning, University of Bristol, UK

Justice, Power and Resistance is an international, peer-reviewed journal promoting critical analysis and connecting theory, politics and activism. Working towards social justice, state accountability and decarceration, the journal is primarily a vehicle to make accessible and advance challenging research and scholarship that can be utilised to critically inform contemporary debates and policies. Originally based within the European Group for the Study of Deviance and Social Control, the journal invites academics, practitioners and activists to think critically about the concepts of justice and power, and what the implications of these are for the lives of people most affected by social harms.

"This journal is an essential purchase, and will continue to bridge the gap between academics, practitioners and activists in a way not seen by other academic journals."

CRAIG KELLY, BIRMINGHAM CITY UNIVERSITY, UK

Online ISSN: 2635-2338

Frequency: 3 issues per year

Published in association with
