

THE POLICY PRESS

The Policy Press is a leading social science publisher, established in 1996 at the University of Bristol. We publish socially important work for academics, students and professionals including cutting-edge academic and policy books, textbooks, monographs, reports, journals and reference works. The central subject areas we specialise in are:

- Ageing and Older People
- Communities
- Criminology
- Disability
- Education and Lifelong Learning
- Family, Youth and Childhood
- Gender and Sexualities
- Housing
- Health and Social Care
- Poverty and Social Exclusion
- Public Policy and Governance
- Race and Ethnicity
- Social Geography
- Social Medicine and Public Health
- Social Policy and Welfare
- Social Theory and Research Methods
- Social Work
- Work and Labour Markets
- Urban Studies

PUBLISHING with a PURPOSE

What makes us different?

We are a not-for-profit organisation aiming to improve social conditions, and are committed to publishing titles that will have an impact on research, learning, policy and practice. We reinvest in our publishing activities, which benefits authors, customers and the community rather than shareholders.

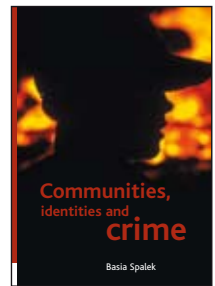

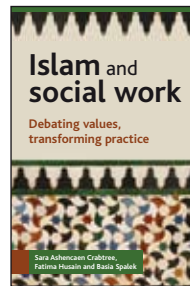

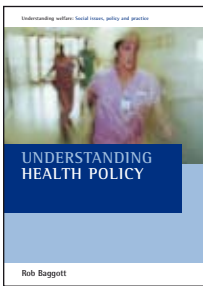

We pride ourselves on our specialist knowledge, which we use to commission, produce, promote and sell our authors' work. We collaborate with our authors and editors to create exciting and outstanding products. We support new authors through their early writing career as well as working with established authors to effectively market their books and reach the widest possible audience.

Why publish with us?

We offer a unique range of work including core teaching and learning materials, empirical research findings grounded in critical analysis, products for academic libraries, and research-informed publications aimed at improving policy and practice. Many of our titles are multi- and/or interdisciplinary.

At The Policy Press we are a professional and friendly team who provide:

- a personal, flexible, supportive and knowledgeable service
- highly praised editorial and production skills
- attractively designed, high-quality products
- fast turnaround times
- individually tailored and targeted marketing with international reach
- efficient worldwide sales and distribution services
- continuity of service from dedicated staff
- a range of products to suit your audience

Our growing global presence

Our authors range from leading scholars and thinkers from around the world to talented first-time authors. We sell and distribute our work globally through 15,000 sales accounts in more than 60 countries. We have agents and stockists throughout Europe, North America, Asia, Australasia and Southern Africa.

Proposals

If you have a book idea to discuss or a proposal to submit, please contact Karen Bowler, Senior Commissioning Editor, karen.bowler@bristol.ac.uk or Emily Watt, Associate Commissioning Editor, emily.watt@bristol.ac.uk

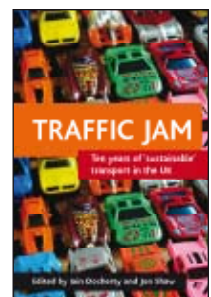

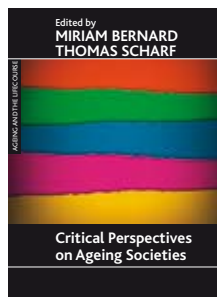

If you have an idea for a new series, journal, or potential co-publishing arrangement with your society or organisation, please contact Alison Shaw, Director, ali.shaw@bristol.ac.uk

Go to our website www.policypress.org.uk for further information on submissions under the Info for Authors section.

UK office: The Policy Press • Fourth Floor • Beacon House • Queen's Road • Bristol BS8 1QU
tel: +44 (0)117 331 4054 • fax: +44 (0)117 331 4093

North American office: The Policy Press • c/o International Specialized Book Services
920 NE 58 Avenue • Suite 300 • Portland • OR 97213-3786 • tel: +1 503 287 3093 • fax: +1 503 280 8832

We look forward to hearing about your projects!

What people are saying

'Policy Press are publishers with a difference. They manage well the delicate balance between supporting and controlling the publishing product and showing a genuine and personal commitment to the books they publish and the authors with whom they work. I have thoroughly enjoyed my working relationship with Policy and have utmost respect for the professionalism of their staff at all levels.'

Professor Vivienne Cree, Head of Social Work, The University of Edinburgh and Co-Editor, Social Work in Practice series

'Academics have turned to The Policy Press to publish their work because of its commitment to publish the very best and because of the dedication of its staff. They are approachable, willing to listen, with a great eye for detail, work in partnership and treat our work with care. When all around us is the commodification of almost everything, it's refreshing to know that TPP ploughs back its profits into publishing rather than into the pockets of shareholders.'

Saul Becker, Chair, UK Social Policy Association

'It is a privilege to work with a publisher that cares so much about positive social change and that is prepared to take a risk on things worth taking a risk for.'

Jon Glasby, Professor of Health and Social Care, University of Birmingham

'It is a real pleasure to work with The Policy Press. TPP offers professional assistance of very high quality in every stage of book production, from proposal to publication.'

Arnlaug Leira, Professor of Sociology, University of Oslo, Norway

'I have nowhere encountered a similar commitment and enthusiasm on the part of a publishing team; something advisers, reviewers and authors comment upon.'

Ken Young, Professor of Public Policy, King's College London, Editor, Evidence & Policy

www.policypress.co.uk